Location

140 Thomas Street is located close to the junction of Thomas Street with Bridgefoot Street. Thomas Street has established itself as Dublin's digital hub, with many global technology and IT companies choosing to locate here, including IAWS, Athena Media, Eventbrite, Maithú, the Irish Internet Association, NDRC and Silicon Republic.

Thomas Street is one of the main historic arterial routes into Dublin city centre. It is conveniently located within walking distance of Heuston Station and the Luas red line, making it very accessible to all parts of the city. Many bus routes also serve the immediate area and stop close to the property.

Thomas Street and the surrounding areas are undergoing a major urban regeneration, to establish it as a major tourist and commercial hub. The area is home to many tourist attractions, including the Guinness Storehouse and St. Patrick's Cathedral. The internationally recognised National College of Art and Design (NCAD) and St. James's Hospital also located in the immediate area. The new Children's Hospital will be located on the same site as St. James's hospital and will boast a large state of the art campus development, with the first phase due for completion by 2022.

As part of the generation of this area there will also be more than 700 student accommodation units completed prior to the end of 2018.

Some other amenities in the area include Pearse Lyons Distillery and Kilmmainham Hospital which is home to the Irish Museum of Modern Art.
